

Project Incentives Survey II - Win a Gift Voucher

The survey is about investigating attributes of management leadership that contribute positively (and negatively) to project success in an incentive-based project environment. We hypothesise the use of incentives will make a significant difference in the attitudes and approach adopted by management representatives on assignment to an IS project. The major benefit for organizations will be reflected in the reduction of the costs and improvements in scheduling associated with ISD/I, and avoidance of IS failures. Your participation in our survey will assist us to determine whether our hypotheses are valid, and assist us to recommend better approaches to project management and the management of incentives.

Who Should Participate:

Project Management/ Leaders from different disciplines and countries. Please encourage others to participate, thanks!

What You Get!

We know you will want to participate because of your desire to progress the professionalism of our discipline, but as a token of appreciation as an extra added incentive for participating, you will go into the draw for one of Ten Dymocks $50.00 vouchers. You need to give us your contact details (email only) so that we can let you know the results of the draw. A summary of results of the study will be sent to survey respondents who supply their email address.

What Do I Have to Do:

Your participation will be important in helping us achieve the above-mentioned results, and the survey is expected to take between 10-15 minutes to complete (in our pilot, some have done it in 10 minutes). To access the survey, click on the following link (or copy and paste the URL in your web browser): <http://www.business.uq.edu.au/survey/index.php?sid=21>.
